A federal grand jury indicted a former Hilton middle school teacher accused of trying to entice a minor into engaging in sex earlier this year, U.S. Attorney William J. Hochul announced Wednesday.

Charles Kane, 46, of Spencerport, was indicted and charged with attempted online enticement of a minor. Kane allegedly posted a Craigslist ad saying "daddy/daughter. Love younger women" in October 2014. An undercover law enforcement officer began corresponding with Kane online as a 14-year-old girl, authorities allege. Kane engaged in sexual explicit conversations with the fictitious girl for several months, sending photos and asking her to meet him, according to the complaint.

Kane was arrested at a Webster movie theater in April after setting up a meeting with the girl, and he was in possession of condoms and lubricant, prosecutors allege. He has been held in federal prison since his arrest.

The indictment came after an investigation by the New York State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation Child Exploitation Task Force, which includes the Monroe County Sheriff's Office, the Rochester Police Department, and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement-Homeland Security Investigations.
