School budgets in Monroe County easily passed on Tuesday, as did an array of propositions to spend money on new school buses and on capital improvements.

But voters in West Irondequoit unseated two long-time incumbents, while incumbents retained their seats in other contested races.

Notable approved spending includes $12.4 million in capital improvements in Spencerport schools, $12.5 million for capital improvements in Rush-Henrietta schools and $29.2 million for a capital project in Fairport schools.
